■ 建筑物和布局

Trevi Fountain, located in Rome, Italy, is a Baroque-style fountain built on the façade of Palazzo Poli. Its center features a statue of Neptune, the god of the sea, symbolizing the ruler of the ocean. Surrounding him are statues of goddesses symbolizing abundance and health, with small statues representing the four seasons at the bottom. Water flows from around the statues into a shell-shaped pool, creating cascading streams. The overall design is magnificent and grand, attracting many tourists to visit.

La Fontana di Trevi, situata a Roma, Italia, è una fontana in stile barocco costruita sulla facciata di Palazzo Poli. Al centro si trova una statua di Nettuno, il dio del mare, che simboleggia il sovrano dell'oceano. Intorno a lui ci sono statue di dee che simboleggiano l'abbondanza e la salute, con piccole statue che rappresentano le quattro stagioni alla base. L'acqua scorre intorno alle statue in una vasca a forma di conchiglia, creando flussi a cascata. Il design complessivo è magnifico e grandioso, attirando molti turisti a visitarla.

Iconography

Trevi Fountain in Rome is set against Palazzo Poli, with a grand façade featuring Corinthian pilasters linking two storeys. The theme, taming of water, is depicted through Tritons guiding Oceanus's chariot and taming hippocamps. A triumphal arch frames Oceanus, surrounded by free-standing columns. Flanking niches show Abundance spilling water and Salubrity with a snake-drinking cup. Bas-reliefs above illustrate the Roman aqueducts' origins.

La Fontana di Trevi a Roma è situata di fronte a Palazzo Poli, con una grandiosa facciata caratterizzata da pilastri corinzi che collegano due piani. Il tema del dominio delle acque è rappresentato dai Tritoni che guidano il carro di Oceano e domano gli ippocampi. Un arco trionfale incornicia Oceano, circondato da colonne indipendenti. Le nicchie laterali mostrano l'Abbondanza che versa acqua e la Salubrità con una coppa da cui beve un serpente. I bassorilievi sopra illustrano le origini degli acquedotti romani.

Design and construction

The Trevi Fountain was originally redesigned in 1629 by Pope Urban VIII, who commissioned Gian Lorenzo Bernini, though the project was abandoned after his death. In 1730, Pope Clement XII organized a competition, and Nicola Salvi was awarded the commission in 1732. Salvi integrated the fountain into the Palazzo Poli and, after his death in 1751, four sculptors completed the work. Architect Giuseppe Pannini finalized the design in 1762, replacing earlier planned sculptures with allegorical figures. Made of travertine stone from Tivoli, the fountain was inaugurated by Pope Clement XIII and named for the intersection of three streets.

La Fontana di Trevi fu inizialmente ridisegnata nel 1629 da Papa Urbano VIII, che commissionò il progetto a Gian Lorenzo Bernini, ma il progetto fu abbandonato dopo la sua morte. Nel 1730, Papa Clemente XII organizzò un concorso e nel 1732 Nicola Salvi ottenne l'incarico. Salvi integrò la fontana nel Palazzo Poli e, dopo la sua morte nel 1751, quattro scultori completarono l'opera. L'architetto Giuseppe Pannini finalizò il design nel 1762, sostituendo le sculture pianificate con figure allegoriche. Realizzata in travertino di Tivoli, la fontana fu inaugurata da Papa Clemente XIII e prende il nome dall'incrocio di tre strade.
